

February 1, 2011

Dear Parent,

I am thrilled to inform you that based upon his academic achievements and leadership potential, your son, [REDACTED], has been nominated to attend the Junior National Young Leaders Conference (JrNYLC) to be held this summer in Washington, D.C.

[REDACTED] was nominated by his teacher, [REDACTED], who recognizes him as a student with the scholastic merit, maturity and strength of character to represent [REDACTED] Elementary School at this unique leadership program for exceptional middle school students.

On behalf of the members of the United States Congress who serve on our Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors, I congratulate you on [REDACTED] achievements. You must be very proud.

As the parent of such a dedicated student like [REDACTED], I am sure you have seen how spending some time in an inspiring and challenging environment can have a dramatic and positive impact on a child who loves to learn and who works so hard to succeed.

Taking part in JrNYLC will prove to be just that environment for [REDACTED].

The structure and content of the program, the guidance and instruction that is provided by our professional faculty advisors and staff, and the site visits that are fully integrated into the curriculum, go far beyond the bounds of the regular classroom.

Specifically, the unique and dedicated site explorations in and around our nation's capital ensure the lively and active participation of students, and tie the curriculum of the program together with the six core leadership traits - character, communication, goal setting, respect, problem solving and teamwork - that are the heart of the JrNYLC experience.

As part of the curriculum, students discover distinctive locations such as Capitol Hill, Harpers Ferry National Historical Park in West Virginia, the noble National Memorials, the museums of the Smithsonian Institution and the Maryland Science Center.

All of these sites provide JrNYLC students with an opportunity to examine leadership in a historical context and focus on notable events, major decisions, and courageous individuals that shaped our nation. After each of these "field study experiences," students join in activities designed to connect both historical background and leadership traits to modern-day examples.

We expect to enroll an outstanding group of young achievers from a variety of backgrounds across the country. We look forward to having your son join them and take the first steps toward becoming one of our nation's future leaders.

Upon your son's official acceptance into JrNYLC, he may request a press release which you can distribute to your local news media. After his successful completion of the Conference, Raymond will receive the official Junior National Young Leaders Conference Certificate of Merit.

I am sure you have many questions regarding [REDACTED] participation in JrNYLC. Safety, supervision and tuition are all important considerations. Enclosed is detailed information on these and many other issues.

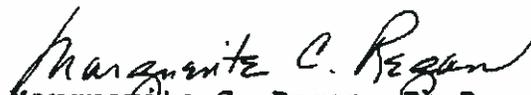

Since enrollments may exceed available space, I encourage you to discuss JrNYLC with Raymond and secure his enrollment by the enrollment deadline date of April 8, 2011.

For your convenience, you may enroll [REDACTED] directly online at www.cylc.org/JrNYLC using his Student ID: [REDACTED], or complete and return the enclosed Enrollment Application in the postage-paid envelope provided.

If you have any questions, or you would prefer to enroll by phone, I encourage you to contact one of our Enrollment Advisors toll-free at (866) 483-1074.

Again, my sincere congratulations to you. We look forward to meeting [REDACTED] at JrNYLC this summer.

Sincerely,

Marguerite C. Regan, Ph.D.
Dean of Academic Affairs

P.S. By attending JrNYLC, [REDACTED] will enhance his role as a leader in school and in the community. He will gain the experience and perspective that will benefit him throughout his secondary education and beyond.

Space in the Conference is necessarily limited, and enrollments are accepted in strict order of receipt. For your convenience, enroll [REDACTED] directly online at www.cylc.org/JrNYLC, or complete and return the enclosed Enrollment Application in the postage-paid envelope provided.